Stateroom Details Update

(current as of 3/24/2003)

The following two pages replace pages 74-75 of PassPorter's Field Guide to the Disney Cruise Line (first edition, first printing).

Why the update? Despite hours of research and double-checking against Disney's published numbers, we discovered that some of our stateroom capacities (the maximum number of guests which can sleep in a particular stateroom) were incorrect. Specifically, several staterooms listed as sleeping a maximum of three guests could actually sleep four, and some listed as sleeping four could actually sleep five. In no cases did we discover that we'd exceeded a stateroom's maximum sleeping capacity, however.

So how did we find the correct capacities? Disney wouldn't release updated information, so we relied on cruiser reports via surveys, our own personal experience, and cruise reservation systems with capacity data. We spent at least 150 hours gathering and verifying data, and we feel confident that the following chart is as accurate as possible. Please note, however, that there were some staterooms for which we have yet to find data—these are in magenta. If you have data on these staterooms, fill out our survey at <http://www.passporter.com/dcl/stateroomsize.htm>.

Please note that this chart is intended to serve only as a general reference. If you discover a discrepancy between it and the information from Disney, simply give the Disney Cruise Line a call (888-DCL-2500) to verify the information. If Disney or your travel agent books your party into a particular stateroom, you can rest assured that you'll all fit. Do note, however, that Disney's stateroom capacity total exceeds the legal passenger limit. Thus when the ship approaches total capacity, limits may be placed on the number of guests which can booked into a stateroom. So even though a stateroom is listed as five or four, it's possible that Disney may only book four or three in it so as not to exceed its legal passenger limit. This is just something to keep in mind. Once you've been booked in a stateroom, you do not need to concern yourself with this.

If you have any questions or corrections to this chart, please contact us at surveys@passporter.com. We'll continue to keep this chart updated!

Thanks,
Jennifer and Dave

Connecting Rooms

2038 } or 2120
2039 } 2122
2040 } 2124

This chart lists every stateroom, organized by room number, with each room's category and its sleeping capacity. Handicap rooms are marked "H." Connecting rooms are in bold and bracketed. Even numbers are outside rooms; odds are inside. Capacity of rooms marked "3/4" could not be confirmed and may sleep either 3 or 4. This chart has been updated from the first printing. Discrepancies exist between this and Disney's cruise brochure, but we've taken pains to make this more accurate. Due to ship capacity regulations, Disney may limit the number of guests in any room at the time of booking, regardless of the room's maximum capacity. However, if your party is booked into a particular room, you can rest assured that room will hold everyone in your party. In the event of confusion, call Disney at 888-DCL-2500.
